State Coliform Standards Not Met for Trinity Alps Resort – May 2018

Our water system is required to monitor your drinking water for specific contaminants on a regular basis. Results of regular monitoring are an indicator of whether or not our drinking water meets health standards. Although, we took four (4) coliform bacteria samples April 19th prior to opening for the season, during May 2018 we did not sample the drinking water for coliform bacteria and therefore, cannot be sure of the quality of our drinking water during that time. This was in violation of the regulations. Even though this violation was not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what you should do, what happened, and what we did to correct this situation.

What should you do?

You do not need to boil your water or take other corrective actions.

Total coliform bacteria are generally not harmful themselves. Coliforms are bacteria that are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other, potentially-harmful, bacteria may be present.

People with severely compromised immune systems, infants, and some elderly may be at increased risk. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. General guidelines on ways to lessen the risk of infection by microbes are available from EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1 (800) 426-4791.

If you have other health issues concerning the consumption of this water, you may wish to consult your doctor.

What Happened? What Was Done? (to be completed by the water system representative)

There were new opening procedures implemented this year, so we did our opening testing twelve days early on April 19 instead of May 1 and did not realize we were required to do another test in May. Coliforms were absent in all tests we have done so far in our 2018 season, including tests on 4/19/18, 6/6/18, 7/2/18 and 8/7/18. We will be sure to do a second test in May in future years.
